

Membership in ISN

Membership in ISN is designed to help researchers and clinicians stay current with the latest advances in nephrology, share ideas and experiences with peers from around the globe and expand their expertise. ISN's comprehensive educational programs promote the understanding of kidney disease, its causes, manifestations and treatment options.

Through a membership in ISN, you will:

- Be part of an international network of nephrologists and scientists
- Have access to the latest scientific and clinical research in kidney disease
- Take advantage of hands-on and in-depth training, wherever you are located
- Benefit from continuing medical education, through distance learning and face-to-face meetings.

You will specifically enjoy the following benefits and services:

- One-year subscription to ISN's eminent journal Kidney International (12 issues per year)
- Exclusive electronic access to Kidney International online
- Reduced registration fees for ISN Congresses, Forefront Conferences and other ISN training programs
- Exclusive eligibility for Fellowship Grants, Travel Grants to ISN Congresses, Scholarships for Visiting Professors and the institutional Library Enhancement Program

- Free subscription to ISN News, the Society's official newsletter
- Access to the ISN Membership Directory Online, a powerful networking tool
- E-mail notifications of nephrology news, unique member services and upcoming ISN events
- Active participation in Society matters.
